HELPFUL HINTS

Caution: Fax machine—Facsimile copies start fading after as much as a week in storage and may become illegible after a period of several weeks to two years. Always make a photocopy of the facsimile for permanent storage.

COMPUTER TIP

Genealogists often encounter strange and antiquated terms while researching. “Looks like great-great-granddad suffered from apoplexy.

Among Google’s most useful functions — it has quite a number other than its highly popular search ability — is a dictionary. It can be used two different ways. The first is by typing a word into the search box. Hit Google Search, then click on your word, which follows the “searched the Web for” in the blue bar on the search results page. The definition will appear courtesy of Dictionary.com

There’s a second method: Type the word “define,” then a space, then the word or phrase you’re seeking. If Google has come across that definition or phrase anywhere on the Web, that information will be retrieved.

The dictionary function is truly handy when encountering antiquated names for diseases, acronyms for old organizations, Latin words, obscure terms or names for occupations.

RESEARCHING IN IOWA

The State of Iowa conducted censuses' in 1856, 1885, 1905, 1915 & 1925. The Iowa Genealogical Library is in the Clarkson Bldg., 6000 Douglas, Des Moines, Iowa 50310

BITS ABOUT RENO COUNTY

The first building in the town was a wooden shack from Florence, Kansas.

The first hotel was a wooden shanty that served fresh buffalo meat, which had been shot on the town site, and cornbread and beans. Beds were hanging on the walls on hinges, lowered for sleeping and taken up to make room for the meals.

There were three trees in this area as far as the eye could see.

One of the first pioneers was Dr. A. W. McKinney, who got his hands on a circular "showing forth in a vivid manner the bright prospects of the city of Hutchinson."

E. L. Meyer, was another pioneer. He was born in Paris, France, in 1849, and came to America at the age of four with his parents. The family settled in Leavenworth and shortly moved to Atchison. Mr. Meyer studied pharmacy and traveled for a wholesale chemical house before coming to Hutchinson. He opened a drugstore and seed house on Hutchinson's main street.

The first sheriff was Capt Hedrick. Hedrick farmed south of town.

THE FIRST DEATH IN THE INDUSTRIAL REFORMATORY

The first death in the history of the Industrial Reformatory at this city, occurred on the night of Monday, Nov 22, of typhoid fever. The dead boy was named George Lackey, and was sent here nearly a year ago from Franklin County. He had been well behaved, was in the first grade, in fact was a trusty, and would have been paroled. As he was an orphan boy and had no near relatives, he was buried here.

The funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Reformatory Chapel by Dr. Hall, and were made appropriately impressive. There is nothing which more strongly marks the progress of civilization and the growth of Humanitarian instincts, than the change in the treatment of society's criminals and unfortunate. Contrast for example the treatment of a young man in the reformatory with that of Jean Val Jean a hundred years ago, as described in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." In this institution every boy is treated with courtesy and kindness and inspire with hope unless he is willfully obstinate and malicious.

This death notice was in the Hutchinson Gazette 10-28-1897.

When genealogists consider a major research trip, Salt Lake City is high on their destination list. In 2005, that destination can combine research with the Federation of Genealogical Societies' annual conference. The Utah Genealogical Association, as both co-sponsor and local host, invite you to join them in Salt Lake City, September 7—10.

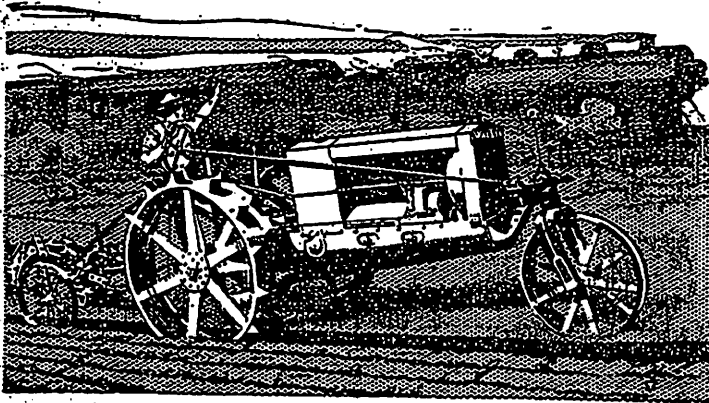

More than research awaits you in September 2005. The annual FGS conference is always an opportunity to learn about the newest sources and techniques while perusing and purchasing the latest in genealogical publications and software. Walk the short distance from the Library to the Salt Palace and you will find great lectures, hands-on workshops, information (and entertaining) luncheon presentations, and networking opportunities galore.

Over 50 nationally-known speakers will share their expertise and knowledge. Over 150 sessions will be available from which the beginner, intermediate and the seasoned researcher can choose to learn more about their area of research.

National Genealogical Society
Distance Learning Program

It is designed to get researchers well on their way to becoming a proficient genealogist. The second and third CDs will be available in March and April of 2005. See FGS Forum Winter 2004 for information or <http://www.ngsgenealogy.org>; or by e-mail to learning_center@hgsgenealogy.org.

WALLIS

*The Tractor
Years Ahead
of
It's Time*

THE WALLIS tractor offers you for the first time the five fundamental elements which our farmers want. These are Light-weight, Power, Durability, Speed and Economy.

50% More Power at the Draw Bar

Power at the draw bar is what does your work. And power can not be bought by ton weight. The Wallis tractor weighs only 3,000 lbs. That is 1,000 to 5,000 lbs. lighter than other tractors designed to do the same work.

The Wallis delivers at the draw bar 74 per cent of the power generated by its motor. That means that from every gallon of fuel it delivers 50 per cent more power at the draw bar than heavy tractors which require 40 per cent to 50 per cent of their power to propel their own weight. This epoch making fact is accomplished by the simplicity of design and excellence of materials and workmanship.

Speed a Big Factor in Plowing

The Wallis turns this big saving in usable power into draw bar pull and speed. It pulls three 14-inch bottoms 6 to 8 inches deep at the rate of $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles per hour. This means 10 3-5 acres per 10-hour day.

The average tractor is designed to pull the same load $1\frac{3}{4}$ miles per hour or 7 2-5 acres per day.

Biggest Returns for Your Money

This tractor which is years ahead of its time, offers wonderful rewards to Wallis users. With the care to which it is entitled it will give you the biggest returns for your money because it will do the most work in a given time and will last the longest. Divide its purchase-price by the years of service and it will be found the most economical—that's what counts.

These are features which you should consider seriously before you decide upon any tractor. We will gladly explain the many advanced ideas in the Wallis to you.

See Our Tractor Exhibit at the Motor Show, in the tented annex and our accessory booth in Convention Hall on South side

Our Ref.: Online Ordering Worldwide

Dear Sir/Madam,

We are writing on behalf of the General Register Office – births, marriages and deaths in England and Wales – to inform you and your Family History Organisation members of the latest developments in our services.

As you may be aware, last year we launched a registration certificate online ordering service for customers living in England and Wales. The success of this has resulted in over 50% of applications for certificates now being made online.

Further improvements have recently been made to the website, with a new site address at www.gro.gov.uk and a more user-friendly format reflecting the services provided. We are pleased to announce that, following these improvements and trial tests, we are now able to offer this online ordering service to customers worldwide.

Whilst we provide a full range of certificate ordering services, there are substantial benefits from ordering online, not least the reduced cost of certificates and the automatic receipt of your order.

Yours faithfully,

Jonathan Clemson

Good progress is being made in compiling a card file of Reno County obituaries. As of the end of 2004 nine hundred cards have been filled out and made available for use in the Kansas Room of the Hutchinson Public Library. The work continues.

Here are the volunteers who have done the work and the newspapers they have searched:

INTERNET SEARCH TROUBLE?

Are you having trouble doing an Internet search? Need help finding information? You might want to try a "virtual reference" service called MyWebLibrarian.com. This is a free service that is available from any computer that has Internet access.

To access the service, go directly to <www.myweblibrarian.com> and click on the type of question you'd like answered — general, college, school, or medical. Type in your question and an Illinois librarian will respond in real time, using a chat or instant-messaging format. The librarian may ask further questions to clarify the type of information requested, and then direct you to Web sites that will help fill your information need. An e-mail transcript of the online conversation is available once the visit is completed.

MyWebLibrarian.com is the result of a joint project among Illinois regional library systems. Librarians from various Illinois libraries, including public, academic, and special libraries, on a rotating basis, staff the service. The hours are Monday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. to midnight; Saturday and Sunday, from 1:00 p.m. to midnight.

The Computer Swallowed Grandma

The computer swallowed grandma.
Yes, honestly its true.
She pressed 'control' and 'enter'
And disappeared from view.

It devoured her completely,
The thought just makes me squirm.
She must have caught a virus
Or been eaten by a worm.

I've searched through the recycle bin
And files of every kind;
I've even used the Internet,
But nothing did I find.

In desperation, I asked Jeeves
My searches to refine.
The reply from him was negative,
Not a thing was found 'online'.

So, if inside your 'Inbox,'
My Grandma you should see,
Please 'Copy', 'Scan' and 'Paste' her
And send her back to me!

SCREEN ACTOR TO SPEAK AT GENEALOGICAL SOCIETIES CONFERENCE

TOPEKA, Kan. – Henry Z. “Hank” Jones, Jr., fellow of the American Society of Genealogists, will be the featured speaker at the 31st annual conference of the Kansas Council of Genealogical Societies to be held June 18, 2005.

The conference, co-hosted by the Reno County Genealogical Society, will be held at Salvation Army, 700 North Walnut, Hutchinson.

Jones will give four sessions:

“When the Sources are Wrong!”;

“Tracing the Origins of Early 18th Century German Palatine and Other Emigrants”; “Family Tradition: How to Separate Fact from Fantasy in Genealogical Research”; “Genealogy in the New Millennium: Where We’ve Been and Where We’re Going!”.

In “When the Sources are Wrong!”, Jones will explain how to spot sources which are often found to be in error and how these obstacles can be overcome.

Emphasizing the how-to’s of pinpointing and unearthing European roots will be the topic of “Tracing the Origins of Early 18th Century Palatine Emigrants”.

“The term ‘Palatine’ was given to any German-speaking person who arrived in colonial America in the early to mid 18th century,” said Jones. “My own interest in them arose when I found out one of my ancestors, Abraham Bergmann, was a Palatine heading for the new world in 1709, but who was instead settled by the British in County Limerick, Ireland.”

Although he does not personally descend from any of the Palatines, Jones has devoted 40 years to chronicling all 847 families who headed to New York in 1710 and 1500 later arrivals to other colonies between 1717 and 1776.

Long-held family traditions can be twisted and changed over the years, and in “Family Tradition: How to Separate Fact from Fantasy in Genealogical Research”, Jones will use one of the Palatine family heads, friend of George Washington and large land-holder, Jost Hite, the so-called “Baron of the Shenandoah Valley”, as a textbook example of how tradition can go wrong.

“Because of [Hite’s] later prominence in Virginia, his descendants mistakenly ascribed a German baronial background to him in their family tradition,” said Jones, “all of which proved false via my research eventually. However, there was a germ of truth in every part of that erroneous tradition that came down over the years, but it had been warped and changed over generations.”

Jones will take a look at what is ahead for new genealogical technology that emphasizes the importance of humanizing ancestors in “Genealogy in the New Millennium: Where We’ve Been and Where We’re Going!”.

“This new computer age is both a blessing and a curse to genealogists. We now have access to sources we never would have been able to find,” said Jones. “However, there is so much genealogical ‘garbage’ out there on the internet as well as marvelous tidbits of data, great caution must be used in sorting it all out.”

Jones became interested in genealogy at the age of eight when he found an old trunk filled with family information and memorabilia. He wrote his first work, A Few More Left: The Story of Isaac Hillman, about his great grandfather while still in high school. Since then, Jones has published seven books, including The Palatine Families of New York-1710, the winner of the Donald Lines Jacobus Prize for best genealogical book of the year in 1986, and Psychic Roots: Further Adventures in Serendipity & Intuition in Genealogy, featured on NBC-TV’s “Unsolved Mysteries.”

The member and former trustee of the Association of Professional Genealogists received an award of merit from the National Genealogical Society for distinguished work in genealogy. He is also a charter member and former director of The Genealogical Speaker’s Guild.

"I really think genealogy is almost 'a calling' for most of us, something we're 'supposed' to do," said Jones. "By getting in touch with the past, we're leaving a legacy for the future, if we do it right, via documentation with sources contemporary with the event."

Jones also boasts a 25-year acting career in motion pictures and television. He began his career as co-star of the "Tennessee Ernie Ford Show", then was featured in eight Walt Disney films, including "Blackbeard's Ghost", "Herbie Rides Again", "The Shaggy D.A." and "The Cat from Outer Space."

During the 1960s and 1970s, he appeared on many television comedy programs, including "Love Boat", "The Jeffersons", "Mork & Mindy", "The Henry Fonda Show" and "Petticoat Junction". He also had recurring roles on "My Three Sons" and "The Patty Duke Show".

Jones is also a long-time songwriter and member of ASCAP. He has released four projects on RCA, Capitol and Epitome Records.

His books and recordings will be available for sale at the conference.

The Kansas Council of Genealogical Societies was organized in February 1974 by six Kansas genealogical societies. The organization exists to provide an instrument for communication within the Kansas genealogical community; coordinate and disseminate information concerning genealogical societies in Kansas; encourage preservation and safeguarding of manuscripts, books, memoranda and memorabilia relating to the people of Kansas and to deposit it in suitable libraries; and encourage and work with any organization that promotes improvement in genealogical facilities and holdings of Kansas libraries, archives and repositories.

Pre-registration cost is $35 if paid by June 1. Walk-ins are also welcome and may register for $40 at the door. Those who register late are not guaranteed lunch and a syllabus. Please register early.

For more information, log on to the Kansas Council of Genealogical Societies website at: <http://skyways.lib.ks.us/genweb/kcgs/index.html>.

The Salvation Army building is a new building, one block east of Main street on either East 7th or East 8th, with an entrance from the west parking lot and from the north off of eighth street. The registration table will be accessible to those using the west or north entrances. For easy access vendors may wish to use the east entrance and parking lot. There are no steps. Directions to the Salvation Army building are: Hwy 61 to Eleventh St. (11 St.), exit west to Poplar St., turn south to eighth street.

Editor's Note: The Committee for the Conference consists of Ruth Filbert and Karen Burgess, Kansas Council of Genealogical Societies representatives and from Reno County Genealogical Society, Marilyn Brown, along with KCGS President Rowena Olsen and RCGS President Ann Lambert. At the January RCGS Board Meeting, it was thought that 100% attendance of area RCGS members would be ideal. Can we do that? Volunteers will also be needed as greeters, at the registration table, and at the RCGS sales table. Let Marilyn, Ann, Ruth or Karen know how you will help to make this conference a success.

JANUARY RCGS BOARD MEETING

Money making projects were discussed. With membership shrinking, one way to save money has already been initiated. The quarterly will be printed by City Blue Print in Wichita and mailed by postal resort also in Wichita in stead of using a bulk mailing permit. A bulk mailing permit required a mailing of 200+ publications and we do not have that many members. Another suggestion was to have a "donation jar" at each meeting. Hopefully, this will eliminate the need for a raise in dues.
